Curtis Hardwick Files For Mayor

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

Curtis Hardwick filed the necessary paperwork Monday to become a candidate for Columbia mayor in the 2014 November election. Hardwick was previously elected to three consecutive terms before vacating the seat after 11 years in office in 2004 to assume a position under Ernie Fletcher, Kentucky's governor at the time.

"The city is spending more money than it's bringing in," Hardwick says. "With the mayor's authority, working

Emily Peck named ACHS Valedictorian for 2014 Class

By Wes Feese
Editor

More than 180 Adair County students will be honored Friday night as part of the high school's commencement ceremony, but a pair of softball teammates and friends, Emily Peck and Natalie Bertram, will be recognized further, as they have been named the class of 2014's valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively.

"It's really neat because we've talked about wanting to be at the top of our class for a while," Peck says. "We're really good friends and we've had so many classes together, so it's special."

Peck, who graduates with a weighted grade point average of more than 4.3, narrowly edged out Bertram's 4.2-plus GPA for the top spot, and will enter college with 36 credit hours, enough to qualify as a sophomore before she ever sets foot on campus.

Bertram amassed 24 hours of college credit during her time at ACHS, and shares similar sentiments with Peck about the prestigious honor of finishing at the top of the class.

Emily Peck, left, was named the Adair County High School Class of 2013 valedictorian this week. Peck barely beat out Natalie Bertram, right, who was named salutatorian.

"Emily and I were best friends in middle school and coming in we used to talk about finishing at the top," Bertram says. "We've always strived for this together."

Peck, the daughter of John and Susan Peck, wishes to thank God, her parents, and her teachers for allowing her to pursue this dream and her older sister, Hannah Peck, for providing inspiration.

"I had really good teachers throughout high school that taught me a lot and prepared me for college," Peck says. "I have always kind of wanted this because Hannah was salutatorian of her class [in 2008]."

Natalie, the daughter of Irvin and Teresa Bertram, says several people encouraged her and helped her along the way, and offers thanks to several individu-

School Board Votes To Approve Raises

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

For the first time in seven years the Adair County School Board is giving raises to teachers, as the Board voted unanimously last Thursday night to increase teachers' salaries by one percent, which will be given in addition to the one-percent raise the state mandated.

"I wish it put us in the middle of the pack [statewide], but it still doesn't," Superintendent Alan Reed said of the pay escalation.

Under the new pay scale, certified personnel will earn between $28,000 and $53,000 next year, depending on experience and education, with teachers holding a Rank I with 20 or more years experience on the high end of the scale.

Administrators were also granted supplemental raises,

Shots Fired In Early Morning Altercation

BY BLAKE SPIRES
ASST. EDITOR

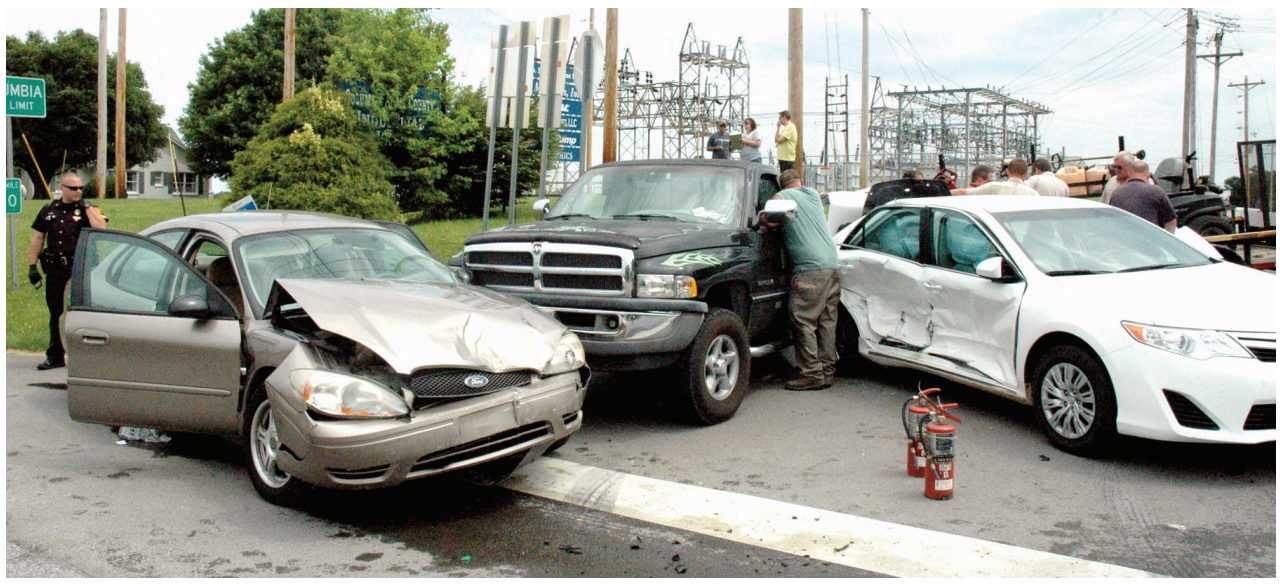

A Columbia man was arrested and jailed Monday morning after an argument resulted in gunshots being fired into an occupied vehicle.

At 2:58 a.m., Adair County Sherriff's Deputy Aaron Rainwater was dispatched to 2988 Independence Road in Columbia for a report of gunshots being fired.

Upon arrival, Rainwater learned that 47-year-old David Tishar of Columbia and 46-year-old Steven Helmick of Antelope, Calif. had engaged in a verbal altercation that ultimately led to the shots being fired into Helmick's vehicle.

"When Deputy Rainwater arrived, there had apparently been a dispute at a gathering at the residence between Mr. Helmick and Mr. Tishar," Sheriff Harrison Moss said. "Mr. Helmick and a female friend of his, Monica Saulter, had attempted to leave the residence, but Tishar retrieved a Ruger 300 magnum rifle and

Three-Vehicle Crash On 55 South

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

Several individuals were injured late Monday morning in a three-car accident at the intersection of Veterans Bypass, state Highway 55 South, and Industrial Park Road.

The crash occurred when Elton Bowles, of Glasgow, approached the intersection from the westbound lane of the bypass and failed to stop. A 2004 Ford Taurus being driven by Audrey Carney of Jamestown then struck Bowles' Toyota Camry as he was crossing the intersection. Both vehicles then slammed into a sitting Dodge pickup truck driven by William Kassem of Columbia, who

Editorial Commentary
Written By
Wes Feese, EDITOR

I'm sure you've heard by now, but in case you haven't, Army Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl was released from captivity last week after spending the past five years as a prisoner of the Taliban.

I've gone back and forth for a couple of days on whether or not to touch on this subject this week, because I know more facts will come to light in the next few days and weeks. At the risk of The Progress being the only media outlet in the country, and maybe even the world, to not comment on the matter though, I'm going to share my still-evolving thoughts and opinions.

What appeared on the surface to be a bit of good news has quickly devolved into a complicated, controversial, possibly illegal, and possibly dangerous situation that has talking heads on MSNBC, CNN, and Fox News exploding for various reasons.

There are two trump cards in this deck, and both supporters and detractors of the deal President Obama orchestrated are sticking to a couple main talking points.

Those in support are leaning on the we-never-leave-our-soldiers-behind argument. That makes sense. We shouldn't leave our soldiers behind, so smart move, right? Not necessarily. The opposing argument is that we don't negotiate with terrorists, which we very clearly appear to have done, since we swapped prisoners with a terrorist organization. Well, in that case, we shouldn't have agreed to the swap, right? Again, it gets more complicated.

To me, the issue isn't that we negotiated with terrorists, but that Obama left Congress out of the loop. The reason the president's staff gave for not giving the required 30 days notice is that there wasn't enough time because Bergdahl's health was quickly deteriorating. I don't doubt this is true, but the man had been prisoner for five years already, so we should've known a while back that he probably wasn't in the best health. Our leaders have had enough time to work this out that the not-enough-time argument seems weak. Even worse, going by the letter of the law it appears that the president's sidestepping of the House and Senate was illegal. I doubt anything comes of this claim, but a few of the jump-to-conclusion types are already screaming that it's an impeachable offense.

Adding more mud to the already murky waters of this predicament, many are claiming that Bergdahl is a deserter, a far cry from the hero the Obama administration desperately wants him to be. He was apparently captured because he walked away from his post, and many current and former servicemen and women have spoken out against him. I won't go that far, because I haven't served, and surely haven't spent five years being tortured by terrorists, so it's really not my place. It says something though that the people this man served with have spoken out so vocally against the exchange for his release.

Then there are the five Taliban prisoners we let go from Guantanamo Bay in exchange for Bergdahl. These men were considered dangerous enough that they were kept out of the country, imprisoned without a trial, without a set date for release. Now they're going home, with very few restrictions, including a one-year travel ban. One year? Does that mean that by 2015 these men, once considered so devilish they were kept locked away like caged animals, will be safe and reformed enough to go anywhere they please? I don't know, but I would guess that there are still some hard feelings toward Uncle Sam for the whole imprisonment-without-trial thing. It's a scary situation made worse by the fact that very few details about their release have been made public.

The bigger issue though, and the one that has been discussed the least, is why both sides still have POWs for a war that is supposed to be over. The 13-year conflict in Afghanistan has obviously cooled off, but as long as we're holding their people, it won't be over. I'm not even saying we should release all the prisoners at Guantanamo Bay or anything like that either. I'm just illustrating that this chapter in American history drags on while our government continues to insist that the issue is already behind us.

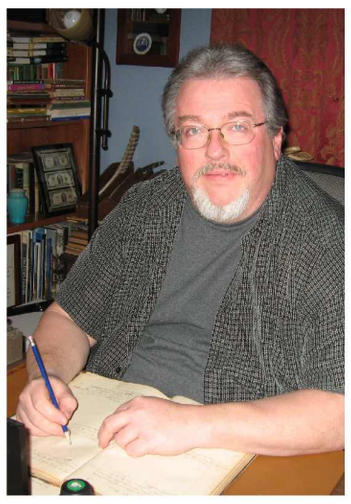

We're setting a bad precedent by holding prisoners while at the same time insisting we're no longer at war. I guess that's part of the game though when you go to war with a terrorist organization rather than a country, because, again, we don't negotiate with terrorists (wink, wink).

A Little Tree History

When Kentucky was first spoken of in the annals of our nation's history, most references were to the abundance of game and the vast expanses of woodland. To the first men to come into the region, not withstanding the Native Americans, there was a certain awe associated with the fertile wilderness. Hunting was wonderful and stories of the forests spread. It was often said that "a squirrel can cross Kaintuck without ever touching the ground." Except for the Barrens, most of the territory was covered with trees. This made settlement easier in some ways--timber was readily available for homes, fences, flatboats, and for household fires and cooking, bit it also made travel by wheeled vehicle difficult for many years.

Judge Rollin Hurt wrote the following of his grandfather, William Hurt, Sr., Revolutionary War veteran, who settled in what is now Adair County in the year 1793. "Hurt...returned from Bourbon County, bringing his family...in transporting them, he used his cart, which was drawn by a yoke of oxen. This was the first wheeled vehicle ever used or brought into the county...to Greensburg and, thence, to his place of settlement...several men accompanied him...from Greensburg...and cut out a road for the cart where it was needful."

For many years the Wilderness Road, so well known to students of Kentucky history, was nothing more than a track, with tree stumps nearly knee high, cut off just enough so that high-wheeled carts could pass over them.

Big Trees in the early Adair County News:

Ozark news--Mr. Wm. Montgomery sold a very large poplar tree to Alvin Young for $6 per 1,000 feet. The tree will probably scale 5,000 feet. 29 April 1903.

Luther Conover has taken the contract to move the "big tree" that Alvin Young bought of Rev. Tim Montgomery. He says it will take eight mules to the log. 3 June 1903.

The Largest Log Known Here--The largest log that ever went out of Adair County was hauled to Campbellsville last week by J.N. Atwell, Vester Deal and John Young. The tree was cut on a farm owned by one of the Tupman boys, lying on Green River. The cut hauled weighed 22,083 pounds and contained 22,028* feet of lumber. It was hauled by twelve horses hooked to an Old Hickory wagon bought by Mr. Atwell from the Buchanan Lyon Company, Campbellsville. The cut belonged to Mr. Whitney, the well-known lumber man. The team and its load was a great attraction as it entered Campbellsville, and also to many people while enroute. [* The following week, 4 December 1912, the News made a correction to the above story--...the big log reported contained...1,228 feet (of lumber). 27 November 1912.

George W. Cape: Our great-grandfather, George Washington Cape, spent his life in the lumber business, in addition to other pursuits. He and three of his four sons, Woodie Alva, Willie Wolford and John Edd, logged much of their lives. He would purchase tracts of land for the timber, cut the trees, clear or partially clear the land, then sell to someone else to farm. The fourth son, George Allen, ran a store and mill on the Adair-Russell County line, and was first post master at Cape, Adair County.

A photograph, handed down in our family, from circa 1910 to 1915, shows a double-yoke team pulling a log wagon with three good, but not huge logs. On the wagon were Woodie Cape, our grandfather, Edd Lee Huddleston, Will Cape, and one of the Morgan men, first name not certain.

Record keeping being what it is, or was, and record keeping of such things as tree size in Adair County was not something most folk thought much about in the past. Now, however, some enjoy finding out the odd bit of information. Maybe it makes the mind work better, or maybe some of us have moldy brains. Be that as it may, here is a short item with some Big Tree diameters.

There are numerous descendants in this county and across the nation of James P. Miller, Sr. who was a long-time merchant at Crocus, on the Adair-Russell County line. Upon his death in March 1905, he left a considerable estate which included several hundred acres of land, largely in Adair and Russell Counties. To settle the estate, eight tracts of land were sold in May 1906. The land and timber were much advertised, as much of the land was prized, and the timber was immense. At the same time, land owned by his widow, Mrs. Sarah A. Miller, which descended to her from the McClure family, was also to be auctioned. It was upon this land that the BIG trees were to be found.

The following is a sampling of the types of trees and the sizes listed in the ads:

490 acres on the waters of Greasy Creek, Russell County, known as the Mulberry Bottom, 390 acres in timber: Ash, 63 trees with diameters of 20 to 44 inches, and 175 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; Beech, 654 trees with diameters of 20 to 36 inches, and 1530 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; Elm, 131 trees with diameters 12 to 40 inches; White Oak, 1733 with diameters 20 to 48 inches, and 1494 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; Black Oak, 382 trees with diameters 20 to 45 inches; Poplar, 288 with diameters 20 to 42 inches; Walnut, 24 trees with diameters 20 to 30 inches; Chestnut, 89 with diameters 20 to 61 inches, and 223 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; and many, many more.

384 acres on the waters of Clifty Creek, known as the Kean tract, about 320 acres in timber, "Here is found the Giant Oaks in great abundance." Ash, 102 trees with diameters of 20 to 45 inches, and 132 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; Beech, 392 trees with diameters of 20 to 30 inches, and 660 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; Elm, 23 trees with diameters 12 to 40 inches; White Oak, 1579 with diameters 20 to 48 inches, and 637 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; Black Oak, 507 trees with diameters 20 to 40 inches; Poplar, 374 with diameters 20 to 60 inches; Walnut, 12 trees with diameters 20 to 24 inches; Chestnut, 136 with diameters 20 to 71 inches, and 206 with diameters 12 to 19 inches; and many more.

Thus, the maximum diameters of various species, according to the advertisement, and some of which I did not list above, were:

Ash, 45 inches; Beech, 36 inches; Black Oak, 45 inches; Buckeye, 40 inches; Chestnut, 71 inches; Elm, 40 inches; Gum, 28 inches; Hickory, 39 inches; Lynn, 37 inches; Poplar, 60 inches; Sugar (Maple), 28 inches; Walnut, 30 inches; White Oak, 48 inches.

Keep in mind that a 71 inch diameter chestnut tree would have been one inch shy of 6 feet across!

From the Desk of ATTORNEY GENERAL JACK CONWAY

When I was first elected as your Attorney General, I promised to fight the cycle of addiction plaguing our commonwealth. Since that time, I created Kentucky's first statewide prescription drug abuse task force, and I helped craft landmark legislation that has shut down half of this state's pain clinics. Additionally, through my Keep Kentucky Kids Safe program, I've traveled across Kentucky educating our kids about the dangers of prescription drug abuse and heroin. Joining me along the way have been two concerned parents, Dr. Karen Shay and Mike Donta, who have both lost their children to prescription drug abuse.

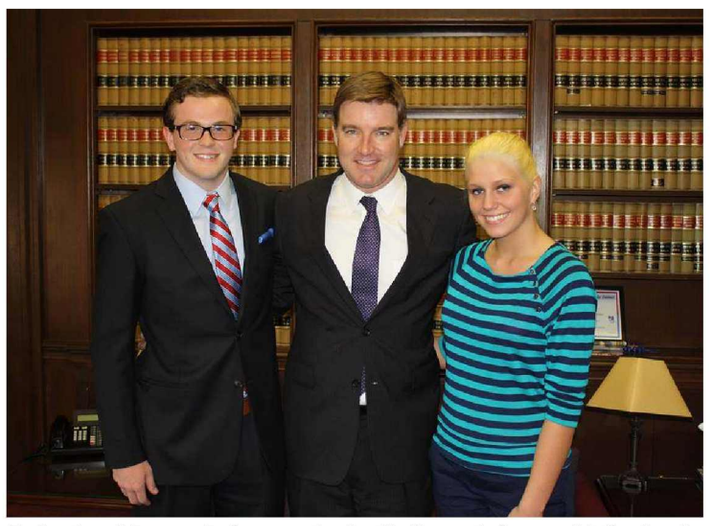

Karen and Mike are invaluable to the work we're doing in the Office of the Attorney General to combat this scourge in Kentucky. Last September, in the memories of their children, we created two $1,500 college scholarships, "The Sarah Shay and Michael Donta Memorial Scholarships for Hope and Healing," to help high school seniors whose lives have been impacted by prescription drug abuse.

My office received dozens of scholarship applications from students across Kentucky. Many of the students shared stories about how a close family member or friend ended up in jail because of prescription drugs. Others wrote to us about how they're now forced to live each day with the pain of losing a loved one to an overdose. These are the stories I often hear as I travel throughout Kentucky, and they are the stories that strengthen my commitment to fighting addiction in our communities.

Joined in Frankfort by Karen and Mike, I announced in May that Kimberly Barrett, a graduate of Owsley County High School, and Josh Hollan, a graduate of Hazard High School, were selected as the first recipients of the Sarah Shay and Michael Donta Memorial Scholarships. Kimberly and Josh are two incredibly determined teens from Eastern Kentucky who have embraced positive lifestyles, excelling in both their personal and academic lives, despite seeing firsthand the devastating consequences of prescription drug abuse.

During their high school careers, Kimberly and Josh participated in numerous community service and extracurricular activities, held down part-time jobs, and maintained excellent GPAs. I commend both of these very deserving teens on their hard work, and I wish them only the best as they pursue their college degrees.

In the fall, Kimberly will be attending the University of Kentucky, and Josh will be attending Hazard Community & Technical College. Josh even told me that he wants to obtain a law degree and help Kentucky families and children who may be facing situations similar to what he's experienced. The Sarah Shay and Michael Donta Memorial Scholarship program is helping these two Kentucky teens achieve their goals and break the cycle of addiction. I'm proud that it will continue to make a difference in the lives of future students who have been impacted by the devastating effects of prescription drug abuse.

In addition to investing in education, I am committed to increasing access to substance abuse treatment. We're using $32 million from settlements my office reached with two pharmaceutical companies to help expand treatment for youth and adults statewide, which includes completing construction on a new adult treatment center near Ashland, funding 900 treatment scholarships at Recovery Kentucky centers, and saving two treatment programs for pregnant women. Nineteen-million dollars from the settlement fund is also being used for "KY Kids Recovery," a grant program created to fund new juvenile treatment beds and/or centers across Kentucky.

The Substance Abuse Treatment Advisory Committee, which I chair, is currently working to maximize these grants to fund the most promising, sustainable and needed treatment proposals brought to us by the nonprofits, providers, and public-private partnerships throughout Kentucky. I am excited about these proposals, and I know that our efforts will help build better lives for many Kentuckians struggling with addiction. Working together, we can fight this disease and help make Kentucky a safer place to live, work, and raise our families.

Mayor Recommends Appointments For Economic Development Board

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

Columbia Mayor Mark Harris offered recommendations at Monday night's June City Council meeting for three appointments to the Columbia-Adair County Economic Development Authority.

Mike Curry and Ann Martin were recommended for four-year terms expiring in May of 2018, and Mark Dykes was selected to fill out the remaining two years of Jim Hadley's term after Hadley resigned from the position earlier this year. All three are longtime banking industry veterans.

Curry and Martin will replace Kaye Bowman and Doug McCammish, whose terms expired last month.

"I'm looking forward to serving," Curry says. "I'll do all I can to help this area grow and prosper."

"I feel honored to be asked to serve and will do so to the best of my ability," Martin says. "The common goal is to bring more jobs into our community."

The Council unanimously approved all three recommendations, but the Adair County Fiscal Court must also vote on the matter before the appointments become official.

In other business at Monday's meeting:

•The Council went into a brief executive session to discuss the possible purchase of property on Ky. 55 North. Upon reopening the session to the public, Harris announced plans to buy the small plot of land for $800, contingent on back taxes on the property either being waived or assumed by the current property owner.

Dr. Ronald Rogers made the motion to go forward with the purchase, and Linda Waggener seconded. The rest of the Council approved by 5-0 vote, with June Parson abstaining since she's part owner of an adjoining estate—property over which the Cemetery Board recently took steps toward invoking imminent domain.

The move is aimed to help the state in their project to redesign and rebuild the intersection at state Route 55 North and Fairground St.

"That will help expedite things and improve the looks of the area," Harris said. The next day, he elaborated further, setting a tentative timeline for the purchase as well as the destruction of the Parson house.

"Hopefully this will all come about in the next month or so and we'll get things looking better down there," Harris said.

•The Council heard from Bobby Bowe about the ongoing process of creating the Columbia-Adair County Human Rights Commission.

"I think it's very much needed—we want a level playing field," Bowe told the Council. "We want to be in line with several other local governments throughout the state that are doing the same thing."

Bowe assured the council that the Commission will be dedicated to fairness and equality for all, and that it would focus on more than black-white and male-female equality, including protecting those that might be discriminated against because of age and physical handicaps.

Councilor Linda Waggener suggested that City Attorney Marshall Loy work with County Attorney Jennifer Hutchison-Corbin to draft joint ordinances establishing the commission, and their work is scheduled to be presented for approval at the July Council meeting.

"First of all I have to thank God, for everything" Bertram says. "My parents, Mrs. [Ann] Young, Mrs. [Leslie] Melton, and Ms. [Michelle] Petty were all very supportive of me too."

Bertram says that finishing second in her class is especially rewarding considering the stiff competition she faced to reach that spot.

"Coming into high school as a freshman, that was my goal," Bertram says. "I always knew I'd have a chance because I always worked hard, but I also knew there were a lot of other really smart people in the class like Emily, Leane [Blackwelder], and Kyle [Castaneda]."

After graduation, Peck plans to attend Honors College at Western Kentucky University, a highly esteemed program of challenging coursework designed for only the brightest of students. She is still undecided on a major.

Bertram, on the other hand, will attend Lindsey Wilson College on a Begley Scholarship, the college's most coveted academic scholarship. She plans to major in biology and minor in chemistry, and is also considering playing softball for the Lady Raiders.

While the young ladies are wrapping up their high school careers and heading in new directions in life, Peck leaves a bit of advice—based on personal experience—for future students at ACHS.

"Sports and being active helped me get through most of school," Peck says. "I had a really good time in high school, and a lot of that was from just being involved."

Thank You!

First of all, I give thanks to God for without Him this victory would not have been possible.

Thanks to my parents, George and Catherine Caldwell for their support. Thanks to my wife, Mary Ann, for her support. Thank you to Mr. Daril Salyers for running a clean race and a heart felt thanks to all of my great Republican friends for your support and faith in me to do the job.

I apologize to the ones that I did not get an opportunity to visit. Due to my wife's serious car accident it was impossible to make up the time I lost taking care of her. Mary Ann and I would like to thank everyone for putting her name on your church's prayer lists, all the personal prayers, cards, calls, food and concern. Continue to pray because she is still healing and we know prayer heals all.

I will need the same support from my great friends, Republican and Democrat alike, this November in the General Election to achieve another victory so I can serve as your Magistrate in District 6--Cane Valley-Holmes and Knifley-Roley. I will strive to be the "Magistrate for the People."

Time To Celebrate Dairy!

June is Dairy Month and a time to celebrate the dairy farm families in Adair County. Adair County was the third largest dairy producing county in 2013 producing 77.1 million pounds of milk from 49 dairy farms. At an average price paid to farmers of $21.23 per hundred pounds, milk sold in Adair County contributed 16.3 million dollars to our local economy.

Several events are planned this year to celebrate the dairy farm families in Adair County. The celebrations will kick off with a live remote broadcast on June 11th at 7:00 am from Gaskins Dairy located in the Millerfields community. Listen in to the broadcast by tuning in on 92.7 The WAVE or 93.5 WAIN. Gaskins Dairy is one of the youngest dairy farm families in Adair County. They began their dairy in December 2007 and have grown to be one of the largest and highest producing dairy farms in the county. Gaskins Dairy has been recognized by Hoard's Dairymen magazine and as a top three outstanding young farm families of Kentucky in 2013 by Kentucky Farm Bureau. Be sure to tune in to hear their amazing story.

The Dairy Farm Family Appreciation Picnic will be held on June 27th at 6:30 pm at the Adair County Fairgrounds. Sponsored by the Southern United Dairy Industry of America as well as many local business, all dairy farmers, their families, and their employees are invited to attend.

The June Dairy Month Activities will come to a finale on Saturday June 28th with a June Dairy Day Celebration on the town square in Columbia. There will be good food, games, excitement, and entertainment for all ages. Be sure to check your local newspapers and listen in to local radio stations for more details forthcoming.

Both Bowles and Carney were taken by ambulance to Westlake Regional Hostpital for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries. Kassem and a passenger, Bobby England, Jr., of Russell Springs, refused treatment on the scene, but later went to Westlake by private vehicle.

Indians Wrap Up Historic Season

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

Another season of Adair County baseball is in the books. The Tribe's postseason run ended last Wednesday at the hands of regional power Elizabethtown in the second round of the Fifth Region tournament. Despite the 13-3 loss, however, the Indians broke unfamiliar ground and made another stride forward as a program on the rise, capturing their first 20th District title in 25 years.

"To an outsider looking in, the season was a success," said first year skipper Mike Mantooth. "I don't judge our success off of championships. The success to me was being able to see a team form and see how much better every guy on the roster got from start to finish."

"We talked about the process and working each and every day to be as good as we could be," he continued. "I've never been around a team that got that much better in a short amount of time. To me, that's success, and that's always going to be what this program is about."

It wasn't just the players that grew from the beginning of the season, where they dropped their opening three games and four of their first five contests, however.

"I knew it was going to be a challenge for me as a coach, and for the players, because we were all learning something different," Coach Mantooth said of his first year on the job. "The players did a great job of buying in to a new way of doing things, and I think we did a good job of working together."

Before the season, Coach Mantooth said that he wasn't concerned with the day-to-day record or individual wins and losses. Instead, he wanted to prepare a team that was poised to play its best baseball when it mattered most, and to field a complete team of guys who had improved and played well together. With a district championship and a win at region, that goal appears to have been accomplished.

"What we tried to do was find the best team we could put on the field," he explained. "We mixed the lineup just about all year until about the final two weeks. We found something that worked for us at the end—and the thing is, we had built some depth to the point that we had some important guys that weren't even playing."

"That's the key," he added. "It's not just about nine guys playing. It's about all 26 guys we had pulling for each other. Anytime you do that, you can

Lady Indians Finish Strong

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

The 2014 edition of the Adair County Lady Indian Softball program concluded their season last Monday in a 11-7 failed comeback attempt against Bardstown Bethlehem in the opening round of the Girls Fifth Region Tournament. In advancing to regional play, the Lady Indians turned an average season into a positive one, and established momentum in the program heading forward.

"I was very happy with the season," Head Coach Steve Martin said. "We had a 15-13 record, but a trip to the Region always makes for a good year."

A group of five seniors led the Lady Indian charge. Pitcher Natalie Bertram threw nearly all of the varsity innings for the Tribe, and provided both power and speed on offense. Sydney Bright handled the backstop duties and was a source of pop in the cleanup role. Emily Janes gave the Lady Indians flexibility and a reliable and talented defensive presence in the outfield. Sammy Jo Kemp contributed in both the outfield and as a designated hitter, boosting the Adair offense with a hot streak to close out the year, and Emily Peck solidified the middle of the Adair offense while anchoring first base all season.

"We got great leadership from our seniors," Martin said. "It will be difficult to replace the starting pitcher, catcher, first baseman and two outfielders, but we have players willing to step up and take those spots."

Headlining the group expected to step into larger roles next season are five sophomores who factored heavily into this year's success. Second baseman Hannah Absher and shortstop Jordan Janes led the Lady Indian offense from the top of the lineup all season while also bolstering the middle of the Adair defense. Brooklyn Coomer combined speed and power at the plate, and also added versatility in the field, catching to start the season and then providing range in centerfield.

Central Ky. Bulldogs 8U Compete In BPA Mt. Juliet Rotary Tournament

The Central Kentucky Bulldogs eight-and-under squad traveled to Mt. Juliet, Tenn. this past weekend to compete in their biggest tournament thus far, the BPA Mt. Juliet Rotary Tournament.

The field was stacked with 23 of the top teams in and around Tennessee and Kentucky. The Bulldogs came away with runner-up honors as they were defeated by the Wilson Vols 14-13 in the finals.

The extra-inning game was jam-packed with defense and offense as the Bulldogs took a 13-10 lead into the bottom of the sixth inning. The Bulldogs retired the leadoff batter in the bottom of the sixth, but couldn't hold on as the Vols tied the game and went on to defeat the Bulldogs in the bottom of the seventh.

These eight-year-olds played like stars and shined so brightly, and many lessons were learned about the game of baseball as well the game of life.

Congratulations to the Bulldogs on a super weekend. Scores from the weekend:

THE BREAKDOWN

with Blake Spires

I was going through old computer files this weekend, searching for something important, when I found an editorial that I wrote last July. In it, I detailed how ridiculous it was that the current installment of EA Sports NCAA Football video game was selling itself on unparalleled realism—all the way down to height, weight, and hometown of the players, yet the players featured oftentimes couldn't even afford to buy the game because, by NCAA rules, they couldn't receive compensation for their likeness.

There won't be a 2015 version of NCAA Football. For precisely the reasons I mentioned in last summer's article, a settlement was reached last week between a group of former players, led by former UCLA basketball star Ed O'Bannon, and the video game manufacturer for roughly $40 million. According to a story on ESPN.com about the settlement, 100,000 or so former football and basketball players could divide the money among themselves, receiving compensation for the use of their likeness years after their collegiate careers ended.

While I'm glad that those athletes are finally receiving their deserved payment, however small and late it may be, the root of the problem remains firmly planted in the soil of amateur athletics. Instead of continuing this payment system for future generations of the game, EA Sports and the licensing arm of the NCAA have essentially destroyed the franchise. Basically, instead of allowing current players to make a few hundred dollars off of their virtual appearance, the two entities are taking their ball and going home.

But the proverbial door has already creaked open another inch. The court settlement is just another blow struck against the NCAA and their greedy, self-serving practice in recent years. Insignificant scraps that they could have and should have been throwing to the players all along, such as allowing cream cheese or jelly to be provided for their bagels without rendering it an extra benefit (I swear that's an actual former rule), are slowly being mandated and allowed. For too long, the NCAA ruled in a world of black and white, banishing common sense and even basic human decency for fear of opening the door to their monopolization of amateur sports and the billions of dollars that it entails.

That greed will ultimately be their downfall. Instead of paying these players relative peanuts, they held firm to a dam made of papier-mâché. And now that the dam has begun to spring leaks, they continue to try and plug the holes with their fingers so that they may preserve as much of their money for as long as possible. Even in the face of this continued assault against their free labor empire, they remain stubborn, and are determined to let the entire thing collapse around them.

Fortunately (at least for those of us who aren't making our billions on the backs of poor teenagers), the flood is coming. There's nothing they can do to stop it at this point, because they allowed the outcry to become great enough to reach the general public. Now that America sees the man behind the curtain, simply putting up another to block him from view won't satisfy the demand to do what should have been done from the start.

Of course, the downside for fans will come in the lack of video game production and, eventually, both slight and significant changes to the college sports we know and love. The college football champion may be determined differently, conferences may turn into conglomerate leagues joining teams from the SEC, Big 10, Big 12, Pac 12 and ACC into a new "division" of sorts, and March Madness may somehow see its seeding, selection and other areas changed as the NCAA collapses.

While I don't think any of the sports will be significantly damaged, the changes could loom large and take a few seasons to acclimate to. But the very integrity of the game will be as strong as it's ever been—and that's a welcome change. While fans have always cried about rival teams paying players or making crooked deals to gain an edge, at least now a great majority of that negotiating will be done above board.

Granted, that won't stop anyone from adding something extra under the table. That's human nature, especially when things are as competitive and profitable as college athletics. But at least those profiting from these hundred dollar handshakes will be the players and their families instead of stuffy guys in suits, and the athletes generating the money will be seeing a fair share of it in a legitimate way as well.

Also adding versatility were MaKayla Matthews and Whitney Turner. Matthews saw innings on the mound in relief, and figures to transition into a larger pitching role next season, but also played outfield and served as the designated hitter on several occasions. Turner lifted the Adair offense with a late-season surge and also served as the Designated Player, lending her versatility wherever it was needed.

Joining the crew of returning rising juniors is next season's senior class. Returning third baseman and clutch hitter Ashley Bragg is joined by outfielder Nealia Baker and shortstop Kazandra Trejo.

Baker, junior-to-be Jera Kessler, and Turner will be in the outfield with junior-to-be Keisha Abrell and rising sophomore Linsey Grant adding depth. Rising sophomore Lauren Talley improved at first base during the JV season, and Trejo made great improvements this year at short. The Lady Indians also figure to have sophomore Cassie Nuckolls and freshman Madelyn Loy at second and freshmen Kassidy Roy and Kelsie Keltner at third after strong junior varsity seasons under Coach Amanda McCloud.

"I look forward to some of those girls playing some travel ball this summer and then working hard next offseason to get ready to continue their winning ways," Martin said. "That whole group will make sure that the defense is solid again next year."

"Our defense and offensive speed both improved this year, and I want to continue that aggressiveness next season," he added. "We need to develop some power but that will occur with added strength and maturity."

Summer Music Camp

The Music Ministry of the Columbia Christian Church would like to announce that registration forms for the 2014 Summer Music Camp are now available and are being accepted for processing. The camp is open to the first 30 children who have just completed grades 3, 4, or 5, and will be held at the Christian Church (206 Campbellsville Street—across from the Judicial Center) the week of June 16-20, from 7:45 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Campers will learn to read the notes of the treble clef as well as apply Curwen hand signals and solfege. In Addition to performing a musical at the end of the week, campers will be able to conduct a song. The children will be able to learn how to play a recorder, guitar, or a percussion instrument.

Lunch and a healthy mid-morning snack will be served daily. Carved into each day is a nearly three-hour fun activity selected especially for this age group. Helping the director, Dwayne Martin (choir, recorder, music reading, conducting), with leadership responsibilities are Michael Branson (guitar), Grant Loy (percussion), Chelsea Stargel (percussion), and a host of other adult assistants, cooks, and drivers. Cost for the camp is only $20 per child ($30 per family), and payment must accompany the completed registration form.

There will be a performance on Friday, June 20, at 7 p.m. that each camper must attend. Camp t-shirts will be distributed on the last day of camp. Please do not register your child for the 2014 Summer Music Camp unless he or she will be able to attend the performance. Most eligible students have already received the brochure, which contains the registration form; nevertheless, additional brochures are availableat the Christian Church (270 384 2612) most weekdays from 8 a.m. until noon. You may also contact Dwayne Martin at 270 384 6084 for further information or for a registration form. Deadline to register is June 9.

have success. Those guys in the dugout play a vital role and I want everyone to know that."

After two-straight 20-win seasons and this year's district crown, the future of Indian Baseball is as bright as ever, but Coach Mantooth says the approach won't change.

"Just because we won a district championship doesn't mean we change what we do," he said. "We have to continue to have the mindset that we're going to work hard every day and be as good as we can be. Our expectations are to go out there and win another championship, but you still want to focus on growing as a team and peaking at the right time."

"We had some good things to build on for next year," Mantooth continued, and says he includes himself in the expectation of hard work and improvement. "I take it personally when we lose, and as a coach I feel like there's something I didn't do right. I'm trying to reflect on those things and get better, because if I'm asking our guys to work hard and get better, I'm asking that of myself too."

Mantooth says that a year's experience with the team will allow him to push the team more next year, and to go into practices with a base already established.

"This year, everyone had to learn each other and it took awhile to adjust and get used to the guys," he said. "Next season I can challenge them more, and challenge them earlier. We're going to go into it full force next season."

Even in a successful first season, Mantooth is quick to direct the credit to his players and the support the team received.

"We greatly appreciate all the support from the community," he said. "I made a comment at the beginning of the year that if you're going to get a program where you want it to be, that it takes a community that supports these kids. In the end, it's all about them, and from the entire baseball team, we want to say 'thank you' to everyone for that support."

A Grandmother's Love

By Shamarie Claiborne

Dylan Hale, Charlene Hale, and Travis Hale during her last day of volunteerism at ACMS. Mrs. Hale has dedicated one afternoon a week for the past five years to her grandsons' schools. A retired teacher from the Russell County School System, Mrs. Hale knows the importance of a family's involvement in their students' academic life and the benefits it provides. The boys are hoping she follows them on to high school.

Will volunteering in your child or grandchild's school improve their academic life? It has been researched and studied for years, and the verdict is a resounding yes! Just ask Travis and Dylan Hale.

When the twin sons of Carolyn and Anthony Hale started school, their family wanted them to have every opportunity to succeed. Carolyn, a local pharmacist had been told by her mother-in-law Charlene Hale, a veteran teacher in the Russell County School System, about the benefits of family members volunteering in a student's school and how it can improve the quality of a student's academic and social success. Carolyn took her mother-in-law's advice to heart and volunteered when she could while the boys attended Colonel William Casey.

In the mean time, Charlene Hale decided it was time after 34 years to retire from the profession she had dedicated her life to. Charlene spent the summer after her retirement doting on her grandchildren, including Travis and Dylan. In the fall of Travis and Dylan's fourth grade year, Charlene decided she wanted to give her grandsons a special gift, the greatest any child could ever receive: The gift of her time. That year, Mrs. Hale volunteered in the boys' school, John Adair, one afternoon a week. Dylan and Travis loved her being there and looked forward to her "volunteer afternoon" the entire year.

The boys and Charlene loved that first year so much that over the next four years she continued to volunteer in Travis and Dylan schools. From John Adair, to ACES, to ACMS she has followed them, working not only in their classrooms, but anywhere she was needed in their school. She has done everything from grading papers, tutoring, making copies, organizing materials, and cleaning tables. In other words, anything a staff member needed her to do, she was there.

Mrs. Pat Coomer had the privilege of working closely with her this past year and had only praises to sing. She asked Mrs. Hale one day why she continued to help in the school now that the boys were bigger and she said, "I guess after 39 years, I still can't get teaching out of my system."

Mrs. Hale taught high school English as well as second and third grades in Russell County so the high school setting would not be unfamiliar to her. The children who are moving to ninth grade with Travis and Dylan have seen and interacted with Mrs. Hale most of their academic life so her face would be a comforting and familiar one in a strange place. We can only say how grateful we are for her dedication to her grandchildren and the craft of teaching. Our entire school system has benefited from her presence over the years and with any luck the boys will be able to convince her to follow them on to high school.

Mrs. Hale has five grandchildren, one who attends Somerset Community College, another who is a senior at Russell County High School, the twins Travis and Dylan, and a five year old grandson who will be starting Kindergarten in Russell County next year. The Adair County School System can only say this -- If she decides to return and volunteer at ACHS next year, she will be welcomed with open arms. But if a Kindergarten teacher in Russell County is blessed by her love and dedication to her grandchildren --- then they will be the lucky ones. Either way, there will be children in the world that will better in the end from experiencing and watching a grandmother's love in action. Thank you again Mrs. Charlene Hale for the countless hours you have given to our school system and your grandsons. You are without question a special lady!

Adair County Superintendent Alan Reed, right, and School Board ChairmanFloyd Burton, center, congratulated maintenance director Ricky Bault on his upcoming retirement at last Thursday's Board meeting. Bault spent the past 26 years in the Adair County school system, serving the first 13 as a teacher before moving on to oversee the Maintenance Dept.

Gifted and talented coordinator Pam Geisselhardt recognized ACHS sophomore Pablo Plancarte for being invited to attend the prestigious Vanderbilt Summer Academy for Academically Gifted Students last Thursday at the May meeting of the Adair County School Board. This is the second consecutive year Plancarte has earned the invitation.

Brody Blair was recognized last Thursday at the Adair County School Board meeting for recently finishing in the top ten-percentin a nationwide math contest for gifted students. Blair is pictured with Adair County gifted and talented coordinator Pam Geisselhardt.

•Raises

based on days worked out of the year and the number of certified persons in their building or department, ranging from $2,000 to $15,000. Reed said he hopes this measure will help ease the burden of qualified personnel leaving for more lucrative positions elsewhere, which he referred to as a leadership crisis.

"I can't attract anyone in at all," Reed said of recruiting leaders to work in the school system. "They don't want to come."

The Board also rewarded Reed with a raise of his own, with several members commending him on his work over the past year.

"If we don't pay these people good, down the road somebody's going to be looking at hiring a new superintendent," Board chairman Floyd Burton said. "My thought was maybe a total of $120,000."

Mike Harris showed data on superintendents' pay statewide.

"The average is $120,000 per year," Harris said. "In my opinion, Mr. Reed has been above average in what he's done."

Quinn Lasley moved to approve the salary Burton proposed, Harris seconded, and the Board approved the raise by a 5-0 vote. The raise will become effective July 1, and will carry over for the remaining two years of Reed's contract.

The raises will be paid for by cuts in spending the Board has made over the past 18 months, including the closure of John Adair and Colonel William Casey, an emphasis on cutting back on sick days, and combining the transportation director and maintenance director positions, among many more small-scale cuts. Harris said that the total annual savings eclipse $1 million.

In other business Thursday the Board:

•Approved participation in the CEP Program for free lunch and breakfast for all Adair County students next year.

"We didn't quite meet the criteria this year," food services director Carol Roy told the Board in her presentation. "I think this will be good news for the people of Adair County to hear. It's going to save the people of Adair County a lot of money."

Roy estimated the annual savings for parents at about $500 per student.

•Celebrated the academic accomplishments of two Adair County students.

Sophomore Pablo Plancarte was recognized for being selected to participate in the Vanderbilt Summer Academy for Academically Gifted Students for the second straight year. Gifted and talented coordinator Pam Geisselhardt introduced Pablo to Reed and the Board, and shared that she was especially proud of him since she was his kindergarten teacher, at which time he had yet to learn a word of English. Plancarte is the son of Pablo Plancarte and Victoria Pineda.

Geisselhardt also shared the accomplishments of second grader Brody Blair. Blair, the son of Brett and Jennifer Blair, one of Adair County's Mission: Possible students, competed in a national math problem solving contest for gifted students in April, and finished in the top ten-percent nationwide despite the esteemed competition.

•Recognized maintenance director Ricky Bault, who announced his retirement effective at the end of May. Reed praised Bault's work for the school system, for which he served for 13 years as a teacher before moving to maintenance director for the past 13 years

"Rick's made us all look good," Reed said. "We're going to miss you."

Second Annual Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge Coming Up This Month: Five Major Events Planned

It's June and that means it is time for the 2nd Annual Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge, great news for local residents as well as visitors who are planning their summer vacations in Kentucky. This year's event will showcase the splendor of the Lake Cumberland area through five major events that will highlight the region's beautiful countryside and local culture.

The Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge kicks off on June 13 with the 2014 Trooper Island Golf Scramble. Golfers will enjoy playing at the beautiful Lake Cumberland Golf Club in Jamestown. The tournament starts at 2:00 p.m. (central). Entry includes golf, lunch, and golf shirt. Prizes are given for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places, and The Dixon Golf Hole-In-One Challenge offers a prize package that includes a two-night, three-day stay at The MGM Grand in Las Vegas. Tournament proceeds benefit Trooper Island's summer camp program for underprivileged children.

On Saturday, June 14, the Motorcycle Tour (Bingo Run), the centerpiece event of the Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge, begins at 8:00 a.m. and ends at 5:00 p.m. (central). The event starts and ends at the Wolf Creek National Fish Hatchery in Jamestown. Bikers travel on a scenic route around Lake Cumberland, with stops at Lake Cumberland State Dock, Alligator #2, Lee's Ford Marina, Conley Bottom Marina, Grider Hill Marina, Burnside Fire Department, and the Hwy. 90 bandana stop.

Participants who turn in their Bingo cards will be eligible to win a variety of prizes, including a houseboat stay, pontoon for a day, cottage stay and many more. All riders will receive a t-shirt and commemorative bandana. Proceeds will benefit charities throughout the region through the Lake Area Foundation.

Also on Saturday, June 14, beginning at 7:00 a.m. (central) on the Square in Jamestown are the Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge's Cycling Tours. Cycling coaching staff from Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia and local cyclists have developed three bicycle tours -- Century Challenge (100 miles); Metric Century Challenge (63 miles) and Fun Challenge (20 miles) -- that encompass the scenic back roads in several lake and river counties.

The Century ride is a challenging course that will take cyclists through some of the area's most picturesque countryside, including a ferry crossing that transports riders across the scenic Cumberland River from Winfrey's Landing to Irish Bottom. Proceeds from the cycling events will benefit charities throughout the region through the Lake Area Foundation.

More Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge fun is taking place on June 14 at the Burnside Resort & Marina in Burnside during the Jugs on the Lake event. Those who have registered have been saving their milk jugs and cartons and building their boats to compete in what promises to be an exciting, and quite interesting, race on Lake Cumberland. Come on out and see what kinds of vessels these boat builders have come up with. The first race begins at 10:00 a.m. (eastern). Proceeds go to projects sponsored by the Somerset Junior Womens Club and Autism Support 4 Lake Cumberland.

The Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge would not be complete without an event for runners. This year's 5K Color Run will take place on June 21 at 8:00 a.m. (central) in Burkesville. Participants of this non-competitive event designed to encourage family fun and fitness will run along the Cumberland County High School's challenging cross-country course. Run shirts will be white so runners can finish the race as "tie-dyed" works of art. The 5K Color Challenge is a charity event to benefit the Esther House Circle of Hope, a Lake Area Foundation fund.

For more details or to register for Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge events, visit our website at , "Like" us on Facebook, or call 1-800-264-7093.

The Lake Cumberland 360 Challenge is a charity event to benefit funds established under the Lake Area Foundation. The Challenge was established in 2013 in celebration of the rising water levels in Lake Cumberland due to the completion of repairs on Wolf Creek Dam.

Adair County Middle School Celebrates 8th Grade Class Promotion

BY BLAKE SPIRES
ASST. EDITOR

The annual end-of-school rite of passage took place again last Friday afternoon, as hordes of parents, grandparents, siblings and other friends and family gathered in the ACMS gym for the eighth grade promotion ceremony. The promotion ceremony, which replaced what was formerly called graduation, established what will become the ACHS graduating class of 2019.

"Over the next four years, you'll have to decide the path you take, and that will lead to your future," ACMS Vice Principal Donna Young told her eighth graders. "The coming years will be a time of self discovery."

Eighth grader Brandi Powell began the ceremony with a performance of the Miley Cyrus hit, "The Climb," which focuses on overcoming obstacles and facing life's challenges. Mrs. Young then recognized the parents and grandparents of the eighth graders, honoring the role they have played in the education process.

From there, the ceremony turned toward student recognition. Perfect attendance awards were given out first, then massive groups of students who had received either all-A's or all-A's and B's for the school year were recognized.

Librarian Tammy Rich then presented an award to Emory Bosela for compiling 438.8 Accelerated Reader points, Mr. Dwayne Martin honored Dakota Redmon with the Music Award, Trevor Tucker was presented with the Most Improved Student Award, and three students were honored with the Citizenship Award.

Long-time volunteer Charlene Hale was recognized for her selfless contribution to the school, and retiring math teacher Nancy Burton was honored for her years of stellar service as well.

"What a bunch of achievers," Superintendent Alan Reed began as he addressed the eighth grade class. "I want to commend these parents again as well. These students not only raised the bar academically, but with student behavior as well. They were always quick to extend a hand and a smile and are very polite."

Reed continued, elaborating on the newly-implemented Indian University at ACHS, in which students will be able to pursue additional college courses and career training while still earning high school credits.

"This group has a greater opportunity than any group of eighth graders before them," he said. "They will be doing both college and career work, and have a chance to take advantage of special opportunities."

After his speech, Reed conferred the advancement certificates to the eighth graders, officially progressing them from one stage of their lives and education to the next.

"I want to welcome you as the 2014-2015 incoming class at Adair County High School," Reed said. "And as the future ACHS graduating class of 2019."

The future ACHS Class of 2019 looked around to find those who had helped them along their journey before receiving their promotion certificates at last Friday's ceremony.

Ms. Charlene Hale was honored at last Friday's Promotion Ceremony with this plaque commemorating her volunteer service and dedication to Adair County Middle School.

Eighth grader Brandi Powell opened last Friday's Eighth Grade Promotion Ceremony with a performance of Miley Cyrus' hit "The Climb."

ACMS Vice Principal Donna Young turned over the microphone to Adair County Superintendent Alan Reed, who then addressed the class of eighth graders and their families and commended them on their academic achievements and respectful behavior as a class.
